SPOTLIGHT

With a team of planning, design, and engineering experts, American Structurepoint has become a trusted partner for communities across Indiana and Ohio for community revitalization projects.

Community revitalization restores city centers and brings new life to older neighborhoods and districts, and state and local leaders are beginning initiatives to ramp up these efforts. American Structurepoint's innovative professionals are recharging blighted communities and historic areas. By combining urban planning, infrastructure development, architecture, street and civic space design, and real estate development, American Structurepoint has improved the quality of life for people in various communities.

Our team excels at overcoming barriers and complexities to deliver a well-thought-out and forward-thinking project that considers future growth and development. Our team is also skilled at applying for funding and grants, obtaining project funding, and developing strategies for the best use of that money.

Our work in Speedway, Indiana, has resulted in more than $400 million in redevelopment. Our public-private partnership with Borror Development and the City of Columbus, Ohio, resulted in 9,000 sft of commercial space and 130 boutique apartments to bring the King Lincoln district together and celebrate the arts community.

Whether it's a smaller neighborhood redevelopment or a community-wide master plan, American Structurepoint can be your trusted, long-term partner to improve the quality of life in your community.
